Entering Students May Preregister

• PREREGISTRATION for the spring semester opened yesterday and will continue until January 29, with blanks available in the Office of the Registrar.

The system of early registration is designed to allow entering students to select courses wisely and with the advice of faculty advisers, as well as to allow ample time for evaluation of high school records, University officials said.

Some 500 students took advantage of the preregistration period for the fall term.

Year Book Pix Plans Stymied

Subscriptions Must Be Guaranteed First—Herzog

• PLANS TO take individual pictures for the Cherry Tree met a block yesterday when Henry Herzog, comptroller of the University and member of the Committee on Publications, announced that the 600 subscriptions required for the annual will have to be sold before the financial layout for the photographs will be allowed.

Plans had been made for student photographers to begin taking the pictures in the student club yesterday, and a schedule of times when members of campus social groups would appear for portraits had been sent out.

According to arrangements made by the Cherry Tree with the Benson Printing Co., publishers of the annual, glossy prints will have to be taken by January 20, in order for the book to be printed by May 1, the deadline laid down by the Committee on Publications.

Demand that the 600 books be sold by February 1, before the yearbook would be allowed to be published was announced to the editor during the latter part of the Christmas holidays. To date, approximately 275 subscriptions have been sold.

It is hoped that a sufficient number of subscriptions will be sold by tomorrow to present a reasonable guarantee that the outlay for pictures will not involve a great risk of financial loss which will have to be repaid in the event that the annual is not published.

In an effort to spur the subscription sales, an inter-sorority subscription contest was started yesterday and will be continued until January 20. A barometer showing the progress of each group's sales will be set in the Student Club.

Organizations desiring to use individual pictures on their pages are being contacted by Jane Lesh, photographic editor. These pictures will be taken at the same time other individual portraits are made.

Andrews Elected Senior Prexy; Wilson, Jones, Get Positions

• BILL ANDREWS was elected president of the Senior Class of 1944 by a margin of five votes over the second highest presidential candidate, Ted Roumel, according to results announced by Advocate Geoffrey Chew at Buff 'n' Blue on December 17. Other class officers are vice-president Nancy Wilson and secretary-treasurer Virginia Jones.

Of approximately 200 seniors, 79 voted. For vice-president Nancy-Wilson received 31 votes and Marie-Louise Ralph received 29. For secretary-treasurer, Virginia Jones got 31 votes. The next highest candidate was Jesssma Oslin with 29.

Advocate Chew stated that the attempt was made this year to eliminate the practice of party politics and substitute a more democratic system of elections. He felt that there was some successful reform in the recent balloting.

Referring to the comparatively small number of votes cast, Chew said: "The election was too artificial and consequently didn't mean much." He suggested that some definite reform be encouraged in the selection of candidates and that there should be a more careful examination of a candidate's activities qualifications with more specific requirements for candidacy. He said that a set of rules, governing senior elections, established by the Student Council would probably be the most effective means of democratizing future elections.

Other candidates for senior class offices were Lila Fundaburke and Barbara Simons for president, Pattie Moore for vice-president, and Pat Orr for secretary-treasurer.

Ruth Atwell Announces Initial Monthly Woman's Discussion

• FIRST of a series of monthly discussions on "Women in Today's World" will take place at a meeting of women's representatives from all campus organizations on Thursday in the Strong Hall Lounge at 4:30.

Miss Ruth Atwell, Women's Activities Adviser and sponsor of the meetings, has announced that any women interested in attending this meeting should contact her at the Physical Education office since they are open to all interested persons.

Campus projects, including the Women's Building Fund, will be discussed.

Mrs. William Crane Johnstone, recently with the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations, and Executive Board member of the United Nations Forum, will be discussion leader, presiding and introducing the speakers. Speakers will be Mrs. Raymond Clapper, wife of the columnist and radio speaker, chairman of the United Nations Forum, and Mrs. Ruth Wilson Tryon, editor for the American Association of University Women. Student members of the Women's Advisory Council for War Training will act as floor leaders for the discussion. Following the discussion, there will be a buffet supper for those who wish to talk informally with speakers. A Navy Nurse class will prepare and serve supper.

Council Members' Toughest Problem Is Homeless Kids

• THE 124 DOLLARS collected by the Student Council for a Christmas party for under-privileged children was prsented in cash to the Washington Home for Foundlings when the Council learned at the last minute that it could not entertain tots between the ages of one and six in Recreaion Hall.

Council members who had dreams of playing games wih homeless boys and girls and helping them use new toys were surprised to discover that the "kids" were much more likely to be interested in rattles and baby formulas. Minds steped in "Roberts Rules of Order" had not time to absorb the finer points of "The Care and Feeding of Children," and it was quickly decided that the Home, and not a body of campus politicians, should decide what to do about entertaining the orphans.

The money donated by students and organizations of the University in the pre-Christmas drive was immediately turned over to the Home, which arranged for a Christmas party and made plans for buying playground equipment.

SAM Constitution By-Laws Drawn Up At Group Meeting

• A CONSTITUTION and a set of by-laws of the newly organized University Student Branch of Society for the Advancement of Management were adopted at the final organiaztional meeting last night in Hall of Government.

The constitution makes membership in the Society open to "all regularly enrolled students" of the University, and states the purpose of the Branch as being to "promote and advance the study at the University."

The draft of the constitution had been approved by the Executive Board of the Society in its December meeting, and was originally written by a Constitution Comittee consisting of Charles Daugherty, Chm., Roy E. Pelto, Ned Schreiner, Clifford Carlstedt, Arthur Souther, and Fred Holcomb, ex-officio.

Plans for the February meeting of the Branch, which will be the first program meeting of the organization were discussed. In attendance at the meeting was Mr. Sam Byrd, Civil Service Commission official, who was recently appointed by the Washington chapter of S.A.M., of which the University organization is a branch, as its student chapter representative.

'44 Law Review Appears On New Quarterly Basis

• FIRST ISSUE of The George Washington Law Review to appear on a new quarterly basis was published during Christmas vacation.

Featured were an article by Robert E. Smylie on "Constitutionality of Federal Airport Zoning" and another by Oren G. Barber on "Competition, Free Speech and The Federal Communication Commission Radio Network Regulations."

In addition to it's lead articles, the Review contains editorial notes on current important legal problems, including Enemy Aliens as Litigants, Constitutional Implications of Compulsory Flag Salute Statutes, State Control over Federal Areas, and Estoppel of Patent Licence to Deny Validty. Recent case comments on state inspection fees, international law patents and trade regulations complete the issue.

Further issues of the paper will be published in February, April, and June. Until this year the journal has appeared eight times yearly, but wartime conditions have forced the new set-up, in order to maintain publication.

Educators Give Technical Talks Before Engineers

• FOUR PROMINENT engineering educators offered a symposium on "Engineering Education, Present and Future" before a joint meeting of the ASCE, ASME and AIEE Wednesday night in Hall of Government.

The future of engineering education and its relation to developments during the war was discussed by Dean G. W. Case, head of Engineering Science Management War Training Courses, U. S. Office of Education; Dean S. S. Steinberg, of the University of Maryland Engineering college; Professor T. J. MacKavanagh, head of Catholic University's Electrical Engineering department, and Dean Frederick Feiker of the University's Engineering School.

Dean Case, in an address on "Development of the Engineering War Training Program," described the program and predicted that its ideas would be employed by industry after the war for training its own workers.

Dean Steinberg described the ASTP program at the U. of Maryland and other schools. He said that the ASTP does not constitute a complete engineering training, but just a background of basic engineering courses.

The program was attended by some 125 persons, including members of the engineering school, outside members of professional engineering societies, and Army and Navy representatives.

Senior Stew

• IT DOESN'T matter at all who the senior class officers are—the hardest of workers have been unable to do a good job of organizing the graduates—but various factors surrounding the late and largely lamented senior elections illustrate some points, and even teach a few lessons.

Charges and counter-charges concerning the fairness of the ballot-counting, indicate one thing more strongly than any other; namely, that the Advocate of the Student Council, who handles the election, should have been more careful in picking his committee. The members of the Elections Committee, though their records indicated that they were conscientious people, definitely shirked their duty by entrusting the ballot counting to the Advocate and his girl alone—regardless of their well-founded feelings regarding his honesty. The shirking Committee members should have been willing and able to give up the activities which they attended when they should have been counting the ballots, or should have declined appointment to the position.

The opinion of the Advocate himself regarding the election, printed elsewhere in this issue with suggestions on the manner in which some of the flaws could be remedied for future elections, deserves notice.

Parts of it—the dream about securing a more representative vote, for example—are just idle fancy, as the test of time has proved, but his suggestions regarding tightening up the qualifications for nominees are good, and the Student Council should act upon them.

Most important fact of all, to us, is this: as we started checking the facts regarding the election, and it became obvious to the parties interested that some sort of editorial fulmination was forthcoming, the pressure from groups who wanted something said, and the pressure from groups who didn't want anything said, became just less than terrific. It got to the point where whole bunches of people were trying to throw their influence on one side or the other.

And what this has done to restore our faith in the power of the press is marvelous.

What Again?

• THE POWERS have pulled another blackjack on the Cherry Tree. Not content to delay work on the book as long as possible, they have now set down such limitations as to make publication of the book almost impossible.

This is buck-passing of the worst sort. When administration officials saw in the fall that student opinion on the subject of the book ran high—high enough that activities were willing to contribute sizeable sums from their treasuries to guarantee the publication of the annual—they gave in with apparent magnanimity. But on the contrary, they were really just saving themselves from student ire.

It would take a titan to overcome all of the barriers The Powers have erected in the path of the annual, but if the present editor fails, the University will have an apparently clean escutcheon.

"We said you could have a Cherry Tree," will be their cry.

Contrary to the opinion of some students, we believe that the job the editor is doing is first rate. She has thrown herself into the fight with a willingness and determination we've rarely seen. If she fails, it will be a glorious failure.

Additional Sorority Viewed as Useless

Gene Snyder, vice-president of the Pan-Hellenic Association here, presents her views on a current problem effecting all women on campus, and sorority women in particular. The editor wishes to express her complete concordance with Miss Snyder's opinion.

• PAN-HELLENIC has been challenged on the question of a new National sorority on this campus. At this time it would certainly seem hazardous for any National group to consider an organization here when they can have no assurance of the need for a new group.

The Pan-Hellenic Association has been an outstanding organization at George Washington for a number of years. In the past it has cooperated whole heartedly in supporting the ideals for which the G. W. students stand; and has always met its obligations to the women of every fraternity.

If Pan-Hellenic is to continue to uphold this purpose it must at all times be alert to campus problems and meet the challenge of its Creed which stresses "Loyal service to chapter, college and community."

The reason for having a Pan-Hellenic is to maintain conditions which insure the stability and efficiency of each sorority chapter, and to promote harmony between each of the groups represented.

It has been suggested by a faculty member to several campus groups that it would be advantageous to women students to have another National sorority. This potential sorority would be formed from one of the freshman clubs which are just now being organized. Before promoting such a project it would seem wise to carefully examine the sorority situation on this campus.

There are ten sorority groups on campus, each of which has a strong National organization and each of which has many fine benefits to offer. These sororities are absorbing all the girls that have indicated their desire to be Greeks, who are financially able to afford a sorority, and who are actually interested in gleaning the advantages of a sorority. From the enrollment of women students, the number interested in sororities is comparatively few. That is due to the unusual nature of this university—the large percentage of working students who are totally uninterested in sororities or who do not have the time.

Under these conditions would another sorority on campus benefit the women students or the fraternity groups which are now here? The answer is emphatically no!

If another National group were organized on this campus our Pan-Hellenic association would have failed to uphold one of its basic precepts which is to accept the responsibility for the well-being of every fraternity group which it represents. The ten National sororities we have are adequate to this campus situation. The groups represent what the women of G. W., who are interested in sororities, and can pay for sororities want. Social groups whose costs are not so high are urgently needed on this campus to serve the students and the college. However, another National group could merely duplicate what we now have.

High rents, dues to the National organizations, and payments for the social privileges which sororities offer make it essential to have a certain number of chapter members. Because there are chapters here now that are having difficulty meeting their financial obligations, it indicates that in the long run another National group would push off some sorority who could not meet these financial obligations. In reality, it would leave the situation in exactly the same position as before except that there would be another group on the brink of disaster. Thus, the George Washington Pan-Hellenic would have failed the whole National organization of the group that was forced to become inactive.

The aims and purposes of any one of the twenty-one National fraternities are not so different that our Pan-Hellenic here could risk losing any of its ten Nationals to get another National group which in the long run would only be supplementing the sorority that was dropped. On this campus a girl has her choice of ten sororities, and there are not a great many instances where she does not get the sorority of her first choice. She has a second and third choice and if she really has something to give fraternity life and wants to get anything out of it she will write down her preferences and she is almost certain to be pledged. There are few colleges whose sorority situation is so ideal.

Every sorority group represents many different types of individuals and it is within the power of these individuals who form a group to meet the needs of the girls who want sorority life. With ten groups G. W. can pledge every girl that wants to be pledged. In comparison with other college campuses, the sororities here whose membership is large are only average sized chapters.

We have already very representative National sororities on this campus and therefore, to try to absorb a new group at this time would be short-sighted.

You can't please all of the people all of the time.

Other Editors Say:

Congress' Halls Echo Fascist Sentiments

No new theme is expressed in our guest editorial this week, yet it is a theme which cannot be dinned into our minds too thoroughly. The Phoenix, of Swarthmore College, makes this plea for tolerance and understanding.

A new poison has become an American institution. It is not just the poison of bigotry or prejudice. It is hatred—hatred of Negroes, Jews, Russia, England, Refugees, Northerners, Labor, and Aliens.

Out of Congress within the past few weeks has come a stream of hatred. Two measures, the Anti-Poll Tax Bill and the Soldier Vote Bill, which were designed to make American democracy more of a reality, were attacked. It was not just their defeat, but the bitterness with which they were fought that gives cause for alarm. These bills were not fought on a rational, they-will-do-the-nation-no-good basis, but rather on the issue of the right of a few to deny many their vote, their liberty, and even their life.

In the halls of Congress the poll tax was defended as a way to maintain white supremacy, Jews were attacked as having caused the war, lynching was supported as a grand old American custom.

Congressman Rankin (elected by less than ten per cent of the people in her district) attacked the bill to give soldiers votes with anti-semitism.

Congressman "Cotton" Ed Smith berated supporters of the anti-Poll Tax Bill with warnings that in his home district these "damn yankees" (his colleagues) would be lynched.

Magazines have come out with articles written by American generals on the patriotism of bearing children for the country in war time.

In nearly every city and town, on the sides of freight cars, can be seen anti-Negro and anti-semitic slogans.

These are the popular American slogans of hate. Hate of this sort and Fascism are synonimous. We as Americans have learned how to use the word Fascism as an epithet of evil, without apparently realizing its forms and manifestations. We conceive of Fascism as men in chains, men deprived of their security, men living in dread, men beaten and broken; yet Fascism, like any form of government, does not suddenly exist. It must be nurtured, developed, aided.

In every country where Fascism has arisen, it has been floated in on a tide of hatred and dissension. It has had its slogans and its rallying points. We must come to realize these slogans are no different from our own anti-Negro, anti-Jewish, anti-British, anti-Yankee, super-nationalistic feelings.

Because these slogans so often emanate from high places, from respectable circles, in no way lessens their danger. Because this hate comes from Congress as well as from a factory in no way affects its Fascist nature. Lawrence Dennis, author of "The Coming American Fascism," once wrote "our only hope from now on is Congress . . ."

We must realize that Fascism is not foreign, that it can happen here. We must recognize danger and fight it. We must realize that every time we say "Niggers ought to be lynched" or "Jews started the war" or "America for Americans" or "Send the foreigners back" that we are helping Fascism to come to this country.

'Dark Eyes' Too Difficult For Amateur Production

• IN A PLAY which required strong stage personalities, Cue and Curtain labored over "Dark Eyes" with talent which was only average—the final result being a production which moved slowly, and left no sharp impression on the near capacity audience.

Although both the play and the actors got warmed up as the story progressed, until the final scene, when the effort was really funny, the production was hardly comic until that point. A certain enthusiasm on the part of the actors seemed to be missing.

Unquestionably the best performance was turned in by Virginia Elmendorf in the feminine lead role of Natasha. She handled the accent required of the part quite well, in contrast with the other "Russians" who slipped out of their foreign character often enough to be annoying.

Tony Ziff failed to be convincing in her difficult role of Tonia, though if only for her delightful execution of a seductive gesture in the first act, deserves credit.

Larry Strickland as Niko, and Virginia Nalls as Helen Field, turned in colorless performances, while Bernard Buck perfectly cast, did a better than adequate job with the part of the tired business man, who is protestingly philanthropic.

Virginia Wertheim succeeded in being completely lovable as the grandmother.

Dick Baer, as the colored servant Willoughby, whose few lines were among the funniest in the play was memorable, as was the maid, Pearl, portrayed by Lu Murphy, whose hip movements as she walked across the stage were just short of amazing.

Dick Speaker, who started out to give a very bad performance finished admirably his assignment as the torch-carrying adolescant.

In all, "Dark Eyes" seemed just too difficult for the actors and actresses in the major roles.

Pan-Hel Dance For Servicemen Set for Sat.

CU, GU, MU Men Are Guests; Orchesis to Dance

● SECOND OF THE monthly Senior Pan-Hellenic dances for servicemen will be held Saturday from 8:30 to midnight in the Student Club. Servicemen from Catholic, Georgetown and Maryland Universities will be entertained as well as University Engineering and Medical students in uniform. An orchestra from Catholic University will play.

Members of Senior Pan-Hellenic Council will act as sponsors and other girls selected from lists of new transfer students and freshman girls at the University will serve as hostesses. Entertainment during intermission will be furnished by a group from Orchesis, the University's modern dance group.

The first in this series of gatherings, whose purpose is to provide servicemen with entertainment, and also to help new women students at the University to make social contacts, was held December 18 when fifty independent women served as hostesses. A Jack Norton unit played at the function.

Barbara Hamblin, social chairman of Pan-Hel, and Mary Ellen Vincent, chairman of the freshman women's group, are in charge of these dances, which are to be monthly affairs. They are sponsored by the Pan-Hellenic Association in collaboration with Ruth Atwell, head of the Women's Physical Education department, and Women's Activities Advisor.

Home Ec Plans Post-war Problems Discussion Sunday

● POST WAR Problems in the Home Economics Field will be discussed by Gladys Wycoff, Executive Secretary of American Home Economics Association, at the Alpha Pi Epsilon Sorority Founders' Day Tea from 4 to 6 p.m. at Miss Kirkpatrick's apartment, Keystone Apartments, 2150 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.

This marks the twelfth anniversary of the sorority which was founded in 1932. Due to the war, it was decided to have an informal tea this year instead of the customary formal banquet. However, the "baby" candle cake which has a candle for each new baby born to a sorority member will, as usual, be a part of the ceremony.

Miss Florence Hall, Regional Director of the Home Economics Extension Service, Department of Agriculture, spoke about the Women's Land Army of America at the regular meeting last Friday of the Alpha Pi Epsilon group. Miss Hall plans to organize college groups again this summer for work on farms.

'Informals' Capture 2 Games In Heurich League Competition

● ALTHOUGH handicapped by injuries to stellar hoopsters the University "Informals" took two of their three Heurich League games last week.

Overshadowing their victories however, was the news that Jim Mandes, star forward, would be lost to them for the season with a hand injury, and Barry Kreisberg, team high scorer, would be out for about two weeks owing to recurrence of an old knee injury.

During the first half of Monday night's game with the Bureau of Weather Information the opponents were able to score almost at will. They piled up a 10-0 lead before the "Informals" finally broke the ice with a basket by Kreisberg. But Doyel, of the Bureau, went on a scoring spree and as the halftime buzzer rang the college boys found themselves on the short end of a 32-20 score.

The second half opened on two quick baskets by Halvonek, Bureau guard, and it began to look like a rout for the Weather players. With six minutes to go, Si Wagman entered the game and the "Informals" tied the score about four minutes later on a goal by Lenarduzzi at 43-43. Forty seconds before the end of the game Kruger, "informal" guard, made a foul shot good to put the student's one point ahead. Just as the bell rang to end the game Doyel fouled and he sank the shot to send the game into overtime.

At the start of the overtime Kreisberg and Wagman each scored a basket but once more Doyel tied the score with two long shots. With but a minute remaining in the overtime, Ernie Sills, who had played a brilliant game with the "Informals" hit the mark from mid-court and this was followed by Lenarduzzi's basket to ice it for the "Informals" 52-48.

Against the Hot Shoppes Wednesday night it was no contest from the start. Without their high scorer, Kreiberg, the "Informals" lost 53-37.

Friday night the Conklyn Florist team was the opposing club. The addition of Al Gaist, former Bethesda high school star, and John Pollock, G. W. varsity football hole left by injuries and though the game was close the students were never seriously threatened.

Sparked by Gaist and Lenarduzzi the "Informals" took a quick lead and thereafter they matched basket for basket with Conklyn's and they won 44-40. Lenarduzzi was high scorer for the night with 11 points and Sills was runner-up with 8 points.
